

A portrait of a woman with dark, wavy hair, wearing a white cardigan with a dark blue and white striped V-neckline. She is smiling slightly and looking towards the camera.

Cervical cancer is preventable.

A Cervical Screening Test
could save your life.

NATIONAL
CERVICAL SCREENING
PROGRAM

A joint Australian, State and Territory Government Program

Australian
Multicultural
Health
Collaborative

Women and people with a cervix aged 25-74 should have a Cervical Screening Test every 5 years.

Your doctor can do the test or you can do it yourself
- self-swab is simple, quick, and private.

Book your screening appointment
with your doctor or health clinic today